

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

RECORD OF THE SERVICES

OF

THE 85TH REGIMENT OF FOOT:

OR

BUCKS VOLUNTEERS.

This regiment was raised at Buckingham, through the interest of the Marquis of Buckingham, in the latter part of the year 1793; and F.M. Sir George Nugent, then a Lt. Colonel in the Guards, with the army in Flanders, was recalled to superintend the raising of the corps, which was completed in three months from the date at which the letter of service was granted. It was then numbered the "85th," or "Bucks Volunteer Regiment of Foot."

The regiment proceeded to Walcheren in August, 1794, under the command of Col. Nugent, and in the October following joined the army under the command of His Royal Highness the Duke of York. It bore its share in the actions of St. Andria and Thuyl, on the river Waal, under Sir Ralph Abercrombie, and was present with the army during its very severe retreat from the Rhine.

The command of the regiment devolved on Lt. Colonel the Hon. Edward Bligh, on the appointment of Col. George Nugent to the rank of a Brigadier General.

The regiment embarked for England on the 14th April, 1795, and on arrival at Portsmouth, was ordered to proceed to Gibraltar, under the command of Lt. Col. Charles Dawkins, and remained in that garrison until the middle of 1797, during which period the whole of the privates were drafted to other corps. The regiment also received a draft of non-commissioned officers and drummers from the 108th regiment of foot, on its reduction in that garrison. The staff of the regiment, under command of Lt. Col. J. Ross, embarked for and arrived in England in June, and disembarked at Chatham after a passage of seven weeks. The regiment marched from Chatham to Derby in July, the same year, to recruit from the different Militias then volunteering for regiments of the line, and from thence on the 23rd Feb., 1798, to Bridgenorth, where it lay until the middle of the year, having then completed two companies to 100 rank and file each, for the purpose of joining an expedition about to be sent to Ostend. These companies proceeded to Portsmouth, but the fleet having sailed before they arrived, they were ordered back to join their corps. The regiment marched from Bridgenorth to Southampton in July, embarked on board transports, sailed for the Island of Jersey and arrived after a passage of two days, and occupied barracks in St. Olan's Bay, where they remained until June, 1799. Embarked at Jersey in June and disembarked at Lymington, where they remained for fourteen days; embarked for the Isle of Wight, disembarked at Cowes, and occupied part of Parkhurst barracks.

The regiment having received orders to hold itself in readiness for foreign service, embarked on board revenue cutters and sailed for the Downs, disembarked at Deal and marched to Ramsgate, where it lay in quarters until the 11th July, on which day it embarked on board transports and sailed out of harbour. On the 13th the squadron under the command of Vice Admiral Mitchell appeared in sight. The transports immediately joined them and the whole put to sea. The fleet did not reach its destination until the afternoon of the 21st July, but the weather being unfavourable they were again obliged to put to sea, and did not again make land until the afternoon of the 26th. The troops composing the expedition to Holland, under General Sir Ralph Abercrombie, received orders to hold themselves in readiness to disembark at daylight the following morning. The regiment having been formed into brigade with the 2nd, 27th, and 29th regiments under the orders of Major Gen. Sir Eyre Coote, one hour before daylight commenced their disembarkation into flat bottomed boats, brought with the fleet for that purpose. On a signal being given that the whole of the troops were on board the boats, a line was formed, and they proceeded towards the shore, covered by some small vessels and gun boats belonging to the fleet, and soon after effected a landing, although keenly opposed by the enemy who had strongly posted themselves on the shore, with sand hills in well covered situations, and a six gun battery directly opposite the place of landing. Lt. Col. Ross having formed the regiment, although much impeded by the enemy's shot and shell, immediately advanced to meet them, drove them from the heights with the bayonet, and during the whole of the day the regiment behaved in a most gallant and soldier-like manner. The success of this day's action was principally to be attributed to the conduct of Major Gen. Coote's brigade, who, instead of waiting the attacks of the enemy, invariably advanced to meet them, in situations where the smallest piece of ground could not be lost without danger. The regiment continued in action from daylight until about four o'clock in the afternoon without the smallest respite, and received the thanks of the commander of the forces, as also those of Major Gen. Sir Eyre Coote in the orders issued on the occasion. The regiment suffered severely, and on the enemy retreating, took the outpost duty for the night. Officers wounded.—Major Robert Otley, Lts. Barry and Travers, severely; Captain Mc'Intosh, slightly.

Under arms on the 28th, the day after the action, when Major Gen. Sir Eyre Coote personally returned thanks to the corps for their steady conduct the preceding night when on the outpost duty. The regiment kept its ground on the Sand Hills, the inclemency of the weather being such that the army could not advance, nor could any communication be had with the fleet.

The regiment with the Brigade advanced on the morning of the 1st September, about five or six miles without opposition, and occupied some farm houses on the road leading to Evert Sluis. On the morning of the 6th, it moved on the road leading to Schargen Brun, and occupied a church in that village.

On the 10th, the enemy having made a vigorous attack on the British lines, the Brigade were under arms and proceeded to ground pointed out by the Quarter Master General, but the regiment not having been brought into action, returned to its former quarters. Marched on the afternoon of the 1st October, upon the village of Patten, where they arrived that night, and lay on their arms. On the 2nd October, the Brigade moved along the sea shore, and just at day-break came in contact with the enemy's outposts, attacked them and drove them back to their main body, who had strongly posted themselves on an ascent leading to the Sand Hills.

The 85th being on the right, and considerably advanced, became warmly engaged with the enemy, who shewed a disposition to come upon the right of the Brigade. Lord Chatham's brigade (with the exception of the 31st regiment) was now ordered from the plain to the Sand Hills, to reinforce and form on the regiment's right, and the 31st to move close under the hills parallel with Major Gen. Coote's brigade. These movements were well executed, and Lord Chatham's brigade took its station some distance behind the 85th, outflanking it by about two battalions. The line being thus formed, the whole received orders to advance at a brisk pace to gain the heights, about three quarters of a mile through a scrubby wood, and then by an ascent to the Sand Hills, the enemy disputing every inch of ground.

The regiment at this time coming into contact with a considerable body of the enemy, made a most desperate charge with the bayonet, headed by Lt. Col. Ross, forcing them from their position with great slaughter, and kept advancing until they obtained a favourable situation below these heights, which blocked up and commanded the avenue and great road leading through Bergen. At this time a considerable body of the enemy advanced along the avenue, and made a most spirited attack on the posts occupied by the regiment, with an intent to regain the heights, but were met with the point of the bayonet and repulsed with a severe loss. The regiment gallantly maintained its position during the rest of the day and night against several other attacks of the enemy. It kept its post during the night, and in the morning occupied some houses near Bergen.

The regiment suffered severely during the above actions, and received the particular thanks of his Royal Highness the Commander in Chief, for its gallant services during the actions of the day. Lt. Nestor killed; Lt. Col. John Ross wounded when leading the regiment to the charge; Capts. Bowen and Mc'Intosh, and Lt. Reilly wounded.

The regiment moved along with the Brigade on the morning of the 6th upon Akmaar, on passing through which, His Royal Highness reviewed the Brigade, after which the whole proceeded forward to join the front of the army, they being at this time warmly engaged with the enemy at the village of Anher Sluis, but not arriving until near dark, the regiment was not engaged, but took up its quarters in some empty houses in that village.

The regiment with the Brigade commenced its retreat from Anher Sluis about 11 o'clock on the night of the 8th October, the rain coming down in torrents, roads bad, and in some places almost impassable. The regiment was obliged to leave all its baggage and other requisites, which, as well as all soldiers, women, and followers who could not keep up, fell into the hands of the enemy. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the 9th, the regiment again arrived at Schan Brun, and took up its former quarters in the church.

A suspension of hostilities soon succeeded to this retreat, and a treaty concluded by His Royal Highness and the French Gen. Brune, on the 18th October, stipulating that the British and Russian troops should immediately evacuate North Holland.

The regiment on the 3rd November marched to the Texel, and embarked along with the 29th regiment, on board His Majesty's ship the Trusty, of 64 guns, sailed the same afternoon, and on the 5th arrived at Yarmouth roads, disembarked and went into quarters in the town of Yarmouth.

The regiment commenced its march on the 7th Nov., to Silver Hill barracks, the 1st day being to the city of Norwich, where forty non-commissioned officers and men fell sick of a fever, and at Thetford, the next day's march, fifty more took the same disorder. Lt. Col. Ross, therefore, halted the regiment at the latter place, and reported the circumstance to the Commander in Chief, who immediately sent directions for the regiment being quartered in the adjacent towns of Swaffham (head quarters), East Dereham, and Walton, hospitals being also established at Norwich and Thetford. Surgeons, bedding, and every other requisite for the comfort and recovery of the sick arrived from London, and although with few exceptions, every man in the regiment had this disorder, few deaths occurred, and health was soon completely restored in the corps.

Lt. Gen. Sir Geo. Nugent (the Col.) being Adjutant Gen. in Ireland, in the commencement of the year 1800, wrote to the different Cols. of the Irish Militias, requesting that they would use their influence in procuring volunteers for his regiment, and on the volunteering taking place, 1800 men entered this corps.

The regiment marched from its different quarters, which it had lately occupied, in Feb. 1800, to the city of Norwich, and in a few days after, the volunteers raised in Ireland joined the corps.

The regiment marched in four divisions in the month of March, 1800, from Norwich to Colchester barracks, where it arrived, and orders were received to form it into two battalions, the 1st commanded by Lt. Col. Ross, and the 2nd by Lt. Col. Charles Wall, and in these barracks both battalions received arms, accoutrements, clothing, &c.

The two battalions marched from Colchester barracks to an encampment near Windsor, upon Bagshot heath, and pitched tents near to the town of Swinley. The two battalions on arrival were brigaded with the 5th Dragoon Guards, 2nd battalion of the Royals, and 64th regiment under the orders of Lord Charles Somerset. The number of troops assembled on this encampment, amounted to thirty-five thousand regulars, for the purpose of receiving instruction in field movements, under the superintendence of His Royal Highness the Commander in Chief, and Gen. Sir David Dundas. His Majesty reviewed the whole of the troops thus assembled.

The regiment marched, on the encampment being broke up, in the month of October, for Winchester barracks, where they lay for three days, from thence to Southampton, and embarked the same day on board transports and sailed for the Island of Jersey, where, after a passage of three days they arrived, and disembarked, the 1st battalion occupying barracks at Grovell, and the 2nd battalion those in the town of St. Hilliers.

The regiment commanded by Bt. Lt. Col. Lee, and the 2nd battalion embarked from Jersey on the 10th Feb., 1801, on board transports, arrived at, and disembarked at Cowes, in the Isle of Wight, on the 16th of the same month.

The 1st battalion having received orders to hold itself in readiness for foreign service on the 26th of June, 1801, it was completed to 1100 efficient men from the 2nd battalion, and such men as appeared inefficient were transferred to that corps.

The regiment under the command of Lt. Col. Willoughby Gordon marched from Parkhurst barracks, for Cowes, on the 27th of June, 1801, and embarked on board transports bound to the Island of Maderia, where it arrived and disembarked on the 24th of July following, and occupied barracks in that Island.

The regiment embarked from Maderia, under the command of Lt. Col. W. Gordon, on the 18th of Jan., 1802, for the Island of Jamaica, in the West Indies, where it arrived and disembarked on the 18th of Feb., in the same year, occupying barracks situated upon Stony Hill. The second battalion having been reduced at the short peace in 1802, such men as were then efficient in it were sent out to Jamaica, where they arrived on the 1st August, and joined the regiment. The regiment remained at Jamaica until the 19th April, 1808.

The regiment embarked at Port Royal, Jamaica, on the 20th April, for England, arrived at Portsmouth 28th June, disembarked and marched to Hilsa barracks; marched from Hilsa barracks for Buckingham on the 4th July, and arrived on the 12th; and commenced its march from Buckingham for Shorncliffe on 7th September. The 85th (or Bucks Volunteers) Regiment of Foot was formed into a Light Infantry corps on the 10th

September, at that time on its march to Shorncliffe barracks, Kent. Major Gen. Baron De Rottenburg, was directed by H. B. H. the Commander-in-chief, to superintend the instruction of the corps in the light infantry drill. Establishment as under;

The first division of the regiment arrived at Shorncliffe barracks on the 16th September, 1808, and the 2nd division the following day.

The regiment marched from Shorncliffe barracks, to Brabourne Lees, and formed in brigade with the 68th Light Infantry, where it remained until the 30th June, 1809; marched from Brabourne Lees for Portsmouth on the 30th June, and arrived at Gosport on the 6th July, where it encamped. 16th July, 1809, the regiment embarked at Block House Point, near Gosport, destined for the Island of Walcheren, on board His Majesty's ships, Revolution and Plover under the command of Lt. Col. Henry Cuyler. The regiment formed into brigade with the 68th and 71st Light Infantry, and two companies of the 95th Rifle corps, under the command of Major General De Rottenburg. The regiment landed with the Brigade, near the heights of Briscard, Island of Walcheren, on the 30th July, and on the following day advanced to the village of Grypskirk, where it encamped for the night. On the 1st August, the Brigade formed the advanced guard of the army, and marched on Flushing and drove the enemy's outposts into that garrison. 1 sergeant and 2 rank and file killed; Lt. Brock, 2 sergeants, 1 bugler, 22 rank and file wounded, and 4 rank and file missing. 2nd August, the regiment encamped with the Brigade near the village of West Sonberg, one and a half miles distant from Flushing and remained in that camp until the 16th August, the day on which the enemy surrendered, and then occupied the adjacent houses. 21st August, the regiment proceeded from West Sonberg with the Brigade to the ferry near Armyden, crossed the Scheldt at that place, and marched to Tergoes in South Beveland that evening. 4th Sept., the regiment marched from Tergoes in consequence of the evacuation of the British troops from South Beveland, arrived at Grypskirk in the Island of Walcheren the same day, the head quarters of the Brigade being at Tervere, a distance of eleven miles. 4th Nov., the regiment removed from Grypskirk to Scrooskirk, a distance of five miles, and relieved the 1st light battalion, King's German Legion; and on the 15th Nov., marched from Scrooskirk to Tervere and joined the brigade. 18th Dec., the regiment, consisting of 11 officers and 111 men, marched from Tervere for Flushing, and embarked on board the Nile and Friendship transports for England, disembarked at Dover on the 28th, and marched to Brabourne Lees the same day. The establishment of the regiment raised to the numbers below mentioned.

The regiment marched in two divisions on the 3rd and 4th Dec., 1810, from Brabourne Lees to Hailsham in Sussex.

23rd January, 1811, the regiment marched from Hailsham to Portsmouth, and embarked on the 27th as five companies on board H. M. ships Ganges and Orion, under the command of Lt. Col. Cuyler, destination Portugal, and consisting of the undermentioned numbers,—27 officers, 459 men. 5th March, the regiment disembarked at Lisbon the same strength as it embarked at Portsmouth, no casualty having occurred during the passage, and on the 10th, marched from Lisbon to join the army under the command of Lord Wellington. 19th March, the regiment joined the 7th division of the army at Ponte de Murcella, and formed in brigade with the 51st light infantry and Chasseurs Britanniques, under the immediate command of Col. Cuyler, 85th regiment; and on the 21st March, encamped with the Brigade at Carrapinha. 27th March, the regiment with the brigade and division proceeded from Carrapinha camp, and arrived at Villa Maior on the 9th of April following. 10th April, the establishment of the regiment reduced to the undermentioned numbers from 25th December, 1810:

2nd May, the regiment with the Brigade and division moved from Villa Maior and took a position on the great Carroll road leading to Almeida. 3rd May, the enemy attacked the right of the line, on which day the 7th division composed part of the left, or rather the centre. 4th May, the regiment was ordered on an advance picquet to the village of Villa Posa.

near Fuentes d'Onor, under the command of Major McIntosh. The main body of the enemy was encamped close by that village, and at daylight, the morning of the 5th May, put his troops in motion and directed a large body of cavalry to advance rapidly upon the post occupied by the 85th. Major McIntosh at this moment formed a chain in a wood close by the village, which annoyed the cavalry and infantry, who approached in great numbers. In this affair the regiment lost Lieut. Samuel Holmes, and 12 rank and file killed. Lieuts. Brock and Hogg, 3 sergeants, and 21 rank and file wounded; 2 sergeants, 1 bugler, 46 rank and file taken prisoners. 8th May, the regiment with the brigade and division occupied the village of Freneda; and on the 12th, proceeded to Badajoz, where it arrived on the 23rd May, and encamped before Badajoz in order to lay siege to that fortress. 10th June, a storming party of the 85th in concert with a similar party of the 51st light infantry, the whole under the command of Major McIntosh, attempted Fort Christoval, Badajoz, but were repulsed. The loss sustained by the regiment, was Lieut. Hogg, and 6 rank and file killed. Captain Nixon severely wounded and taken prisoner, 3 sergeants, and 12 rank and file wounded. 16th June, the regiment with the division retreated to Campo Maior; marched from thence on the 19th July, and arrived in Niza on the 23rd of the same month; marched from Niza, Aug. 2nd, and arrived at Villa Maior on the 10th, detached from the brigade to Arafau, a village two miles distant. Moved from Arafau, Sept. 17th, and joined the brigade at Escrobaldadas. The regiment with the division marched on the 23rd into the village of Allamadilla in Spain; and on the 26th Sept., retreated to Sabugal, and from thence to Pinnamacor, where it arrived on the 30th. 5th Oct., the regiment having received orders to proceed to England, marched from Pinnamacor to Lisbon, and embarked on board H. M. ship Agincourt, and Hartford transport, disembarked at Portsmouth the 2nd Dec. following, consisting of the numbers below mentioned,—viz., 20 officers, 246 men. 13th Dec., the regiment arrived at Brabourne Lees, from Portsmouth, where it remained until 5th May, 1812; when it marched from Brabourne Lees to Hythe.

27th May, 1813, the establishment of the regiment augmented to the undermentioned numbers, viz.,—

Col.	Lt. Col.	Majors.	Capta.	Lieuts.	Ensigns.	Staff.	Sergeants.	Buglers.	Rank and File.

21st July, 1813, the regiment marched from Hythe to Dover, and embarked on board the Isabella, Bellona, and Dymas, transports, under the command of Lt. Col. Thornton, destination Spain, consisting of the following numbers, 360 officers, 600 men. 19th Aug., the regiment disembarked at Passages, Spain, and encamped near Renteria, contiguous to the place of landing, formed in brigade with the 76th and 84th regiments, under the command of Major Gen. Lord Aylmer; and on the 28th Aug., marched to Oyarzun and encamped. 30th Aug., the regiment marched back on Passages, detached from the brigade on a particular service, and encamped close by that town, with the exception of two companies, that were ordered on board H. M. Ship Despatch, under the command of Major Deshon. 31st Aug., five companies under the command of Col. Thornton embarked in boats and appeared off St. Sebastians, with the view to the feint of an attack on the north side of the castle, in order to withdraw the attention of the enemy from the troops employed in storming the town. This service was performed without any loss on the part of the regiment, notwithstanding the continued fire which was directed upon the boats by the enemy. On the evening of the same day the regiment landed from the boats, &c., and returned to the brigade at Oyarzun. 6th Sept., the regiment with the brigade marched to Pena de Aye; and on the 12th Sept., the regiment moved from Pena de Aye and encamped near Irun, being detached a distance of three miles from the brigade. 7th Oct., the brigade assembled at three o'clock, a.m., when the left column of the army was put in motion, crossed the river Bidassoa, and entered France. 10th November, the left column of the army was again put in motion. The regiment was selected to attack and carry the village of Urogne, which it accomplished and maintained, with the loss of Lt. Johnson, killed; 1 sergeant and 12 rank and file wounded. The next morning it advanced through St. Jean De Luz and proceeded to Guthory, where the brigade encamped. 18th Nov., the brigade retired and occupied houses one mile distant from St. Jean De Luz. 11th Dec., the brigade advanced on Bayonne, the enemy approaching to the Mayor's house (a distance of three miles from Bayonne) so rapidly that the 5th division fell back on Lord Aylmer's brigade, in consequence of which Captains Brown and Ball's companies with the light companies of the 62nd and 76th regiments, under the command of Major Deshon, were detached from the brigade to skirmish and retard the enemy's progress in advancing, which they completely effected, with the loss of 1 rank and file killed; Lt. Henry Belstead, and 1 rank and file wounded. 12th Dec., the advance pioquet were engaged with the enemy two hours, on which occasion the regiment had 10 men wounded. 18th Dec., the regiment with the brigade took the outpost duty; relieved by the brigade of guards.

4th Jan., 1814, the army being put in motion, the brigade moved to Arcangas, and the regiment relieved the 95th on the out pioquets. 8th Jan., the brigade took the outpost duties at the Mayor's house, and on the 11th returned to cantonments, in Bedart. 21st Feb., the regiment marched with the brigade from Bedart at three o'clock a.m., and relieved the 5th division at Garrett's house. 23rd Feb., the regiment marched at three o'clock a.m., to the tower at the Bassassara Ridge, drove in the enemy's pioquets, and in the evening proceeded to Anglet, and occupied the houses there that night. 24th Feb., the regiment detached from the brigade to relieve the guards, at the causeway near Bayonne. 4th April, the regiment with the brigade crossed the Adour, encamped at Bocant, and took the outpost duty at St. Ebeana. 8th April, the brigade returned to Anglet, leaving its tent with the 5th division, occupied the houses close by the enemy's works, but in consequence of the heavy fire which the French directed to the houses, seven companies of the regiment retired a small distance to the rear. 12th April, the regiment took up its original position in the pine wood near the Adour. 16th April, the regiment accompanied by the corps of the brigade, marched to Bocant and relieved the Royals, 38th, and 47th regiments on the outpost duty. 8th May, the brigade marched from Bocant and encamped near St. Jean De Luz. 15th May, the regiment marched from the encampment near St. Jean De Luz, and arrived at Bordeaux on the 23rd, and thence to Blanc Ford, and encamped on the 24th May, on which day Major Gen. Lord Aylmer's brigade was broken up. 29th May, the regiment embarked for America at Poulliac, in brigade with the 4th and 44th regiments, under command of Major General Ross, on board H. M. ship Diadem, and sailed on the 2nd June. 21st June, the fleet put in at St. Michaels, took on board fresh provisions and water, sailed again on the 24th. 25th July, the fleet arrived at Bermuda, watered, and got a fresh supply of provisions. 3rd Aug., the fleet sailed for the Chesapeake, and arrived at the Patuxent river on the 18th, landed at Benedict, about nine miles up that river, and encamped a small distance from the village. The troops under the command of Major General Ross, on disembarking were formed into brigades as follows:

20th Aug., the troops commenced the march for the city of Washington; the light brigade under Col. Thornton, forming the advance of the army, arrived at Bladensburg, a village five miles distant from Washington, near which village the enemy's troops were strongly posted, consisting of eight thousand infantry, seven hundred cavalry, and twenty pieces of artillery; as soon as the regiment entered Bladensburg, the enemy opened a heavy fire from a battery erected close by that town, and which covered the bridge on the main road leading to Washington. Col. Thornton, however, at the head of the regiment passed this bridge, and took possession of the battery and 12 pieces of cannon. Commodore Barney, who commanded this battery, was wounded and taken prisoner. The regiment continued advancing, drove the enemy in all directions, and proceeded to Washington, where it arrived at ten o'clock p.m. In this contest Captain Hamilton, Lt. Codd, 1 serjeant, and 12 and rank file, were killed. Col. Thornton, Lt. Col. Wood, Major Brown, Lts. Williams, Barrrell, Mannell, O'Connor, Gascoigne, Hickson, Gleig, and Crouchley, 2 serjeants, and 51 rank and file, were wounded; 6 rank and file missing. 25th Aug., the regiment was employed in burning and destroying the public buildings at Washington, and at eight o'clock that evening formed the rear guard of the army, which commenced its retreat on Benedict. 31st Aug., re-embarked at Benedict on board the respective ships without any opposition. 12th Sept., the regiment accompanied by the remainder of the troops, disembarked at North Point, 17 miles from Baltimore, and commenced the march for the investment of that town. At this period the command of the regiment devolved upon Bt. Major Gubbins, (Col. Thornton, Lt. Col. Wood, and Major Brown, having been left at Washington, the severity of their wounds not admitting of their removal), and the command of the light brigade on Major Jones, 4th Foot. About three o'clock p.m., the enemy was observed posted in the skirts of the Godling wood, in number about 7000 men, and soon afterwards commenced an attack in which the Americans were completely repulsed, leaving two field pieces and a number of prisoners in our possession. On this occasion the loss sustained by the regiment was very trifling. 2 rank and file killed. Capts. De Bathe and Hicks, Lt. Wellings, and 28 rank and file, wounded.

Major Gen. Ross was killed by an accidental shot, previous to the above attack, and the command of the army composing this division had devolved upon Col. Brooke, 44th regiment. 14th September, from the superiority of the enemy's numbers, and the very strong position which they occupied, it was judged expedient that the army should retire, which was accordingly resolved on and accomplished. 15th Sept., re-embarked on board the different ships without any interruption. 9th Oct., Colonel Thornton, Lieut. Col. Wood, two serjeants, and 80 rank and file joined the regiment from Washington, where they had been prisoners of war. 14th October, the troops sailed from the Chesapeake, and arrived at Port Royal, Jamaica, on the 31st of the same month. 24th Nov., Major Gen. Keane joined the division from England with a reinforcement, and, as senior officer, took command of the troops. 25th Nov., Major Gen. Keane formed the troops in brigades as follows.

1st Brigade, Major General Keane	{	93rd Regiment 1st Battalion.
		1st West India Regiment.
		5th West India Regiment.
		4th Regiment 1st Battalion.
2nd Brigade, Colonel Brooke		21st Regiment, 1st Battalion.
		44th Regiment, 1st Battalion.

The 85th regiment, and five companies of the 95th under command of Col. Thornton, 85th, formed the advance. 26th Nov., the regiment with the division, sailed from Jamaica, destination, New Orleans. 17th Dec., the regiment with the five companies of the 95th Rifle regiment, landed on Pine Island. 22nd Dec., the advance guard consisting of the 85th, 95th, Captain Laine's rocketeers, one hundred sappers and miners, and the 4th regiment of foot as a support, the whole under the command of Col. Thornton, proceeded in boats, and landed in a creek near New Orleans, at daylight next morning. At eight o'clock on the evening of the 23rd Dec., the enemy attacked this small force in every direction, assisted by a schooner of 18 guns, and 2 gun boats, which dropped down Mississippi river for the purpose. Being thus attacked on all sides, a very severe conflict commenced, and after a contest of four hours, the enemy were completely repulsed, but not without a severe loss on the part of the regiment. Captain Grey and Harris, Lieut. Hickson, and thirteen rank and file killed. Captain Knox, Lieuts. Wellings and Maunsell, four serjeants, two buglers, and 59 rank and file wounded. 25th Dec., Maj. Gen. Sir Edward Pakenham, G.B., arrived from England, and assumed the command of the army, which was formed into brigades as follows:

2nd Brigade, Major General Gibbs.	{	4th Regiment.
		21st Fusiliers.
		44th Regiment.
		85th Light Infantry.
3rd Brigade, Major General Keane.		95th Rifle Corps.
		93rd Regiment.

The 5th West India regiment to do duty with the 3rd brigade. 28th Dec., the army advanced on New Orleans, for the purpose of making a reconnaissance of the enemy's position. In this movement the regiment had Ensign Sir F. Eden, one bugler, five rank and file killed, Lieut. Ormaby and thirteen rank and file wounded. 31st Dec., the troops again advanced, from which no casualty occurred in the regiment; employed in erecting batteries, &c. during the night. The enemy's line were cannonading during the whole of the succeeding day. Lieut. Charleton, and one rank and file wounded. 6th Jan., 1815, Major Gen. Lambert, with the 7th Fusiliers, and 43rd Light Infantry, joined the army and formed the 1st brigade. 7th Jan., the regiment, with two hundred seamen, four hundred marines and the 5th West India regiment, the whole under command of Col. Thornton, 85th regiment, were selected for a particular service on the right bank of Mississippi, and were directed to be in readiness by 12 o'clock that night to proceed in boats across the river, and attack the enemy's position in that quarter; from the delay which unavoidably took place in preparing the boats, it was day-light the next morning before the regiment with about the third of the force attached to it, reached the right bank. The landing was effected without opposition, and the troops proceeded according to the orders which had been previously given. The advance picket of the enemy occupying a work newly thrown up, was forced and driven in, by a division of the regiment commanded by Captain Schaw, to his main position, extending back from a redoubt on the bank of the river to an almost impassable wood, which was shortly carried with the redoubt batteries, mounting seventeen guns, one stand of colours, camp stores, provisions, &c., the enemy being entirely defeated and dispersed in all directions. This service was performed by the 85th light infantry, one hundred and twenty marines, and one hundred seamen, with a few individuals of the rocket brigade, the remaining part of the force allotted to the service not having been passed across the river, from the impossibility of procuring sufficient boats for that purpose. On this occasion the regiment had only one rank and file killed, Col. Thornton, Lieut. Urquhart, two serjeants, two buglars, and thirty-eight rank and file wounded. At this period the regiment was commanded by Major Deshon, and the detached force by Bt. Lt. Col. Gubbins. This force was, immediately after its success, ordered to recross the river and join the troops on the left bank. 9th Jan., commenced re-embarking the ammunition stores, &c., and the wounded men. 18th Jan., the regiment commenced its retreat from New Orleans, at 8 p.m. and marched to the Fishermen's Huts, a distance of fourteen miles. 24th Jan., one hundred and fifty men of the regiment embarked in boats at the Fishermen's Huts, and proceeded to the shipping at anchor, off Isle du Chat, a distance of seventy miles, the remainder of the regiment embarked the following day in the same manner, and returned to their respective ships. 7th Feb., the regiment disembarked at Isle Dauphin, opposite to Fort Boyer, on Point Mobile. 10th Feb., the regiment was detached from the brigade, to reinforce the 2nd brigade in the investment of Fort Boyer, and took the outpost duty that night. 11th Feb., Fort Boyer surrendered, and the regiment the next day rejoined the 3rd brigade at Isle Dauphin. 15th March, the regiment embarked at Isle Dauphin on board H. M. ship Thames, and the Golden Fleece transport. On the 18th sailed for England, and arrived at Deal on the 13th May. From thence it proceeded to Hythe where it arrived on the 16th. 12th Aug., the following letter was received granting the regiment a new denomination.

Horse Guards, 10th Aug., 1815.

Sir,—I have the honour to acquaint you, by direction of the Commander in Chief, that in consideration of the discipline and good conduct evinced by the 85th Regiment, on various important services on which it has been employed in Europe and America, since the year 1813, His Royal Highness the Prince Regent in the name and on behalf of His Majesty, has been pleased to approve of the 85th Regt. being in future styled the 85th or (Duke of York's own) Regiment of Light Infantry, and also to permit the Regiment to bear on its colours and appointments, in addition to any other badges or devices which may have been heretofore granted to the Regiment, the motto "Aucto Splendore Resurgo."

BRITISH ARMY DESPATCH.

HORSE GUARDS,

ORDNANCE,

AND EAST INDIA COMPANY'S MILITARY SERVICE, GAZETTE.

The "BRITISH ARMY DESPATCH" was established upon the ground that the British Army would appreciate and support an Organ exclusively devoted to the Service. SINCE THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE PAPER, IT HAS BEEN THE UNWEARIED CHAMPION OF THE INTERESTS OF THE ARMY; and in conscientiously carrying out this policy, its earlier career was fraught with no ordinary degree of difficulty. Thanks, however, to perseverance, and the warm and cordial support of a large body of influential Officers, the Journal has long since entirely overcome every obstacle which originally surrounded it.

It were needless at this time to enlarge upon its principles, or to dilate upon those merits which have been generally acknowledged. Suffice it that the staff now attached to the paper is composed of Officers and Gentlemen of well-known Military, as well as Literary, attainments. The result is that, by their valuable contributions, by the increased estimation of the Journal in public opinion, by the authentic nature of its information, and by the ready means possessed of ascertaining the earliest official intelligence, the proprietors have pleasure in announcing that the Journal within the last six months has increased in circulation more than at any previous term of its career.

In its arrangement of News no labour is spared to make the "BRITISH ARMY DESPATCH" a record of Military, Fashionable, and General Intelligence. It is published every Friday afternoon, and is forwarded by the post of that evening, containing the Gazette issued from the War-office the same night. It contains a careful digest of Regimental News, including Royal Artillery, Royal Engineers, the Royal Marines, Commissariat and Medical Departments, the Yeomanry Cavalry, and Militia; Naval Intelligence; Original Reviews, of Military and other Works; Indian Military Intelligence; City Article; Railway Shares, &c., &c. In addition, a carefully compiled Table of the Stations of Her Majesty's Army is published monthly.

The policy and object of the BRITISH ARMY DESPATCH is to maintain the interests of the Army; to expose and to contend against the abuses of Ministerial Army Patronage; to support, by every just and honest means, the integrity of the Service, and to advance its welfare. To this end, and to ensure success, we trust in the continuance of that support of the Army which is never withheld from those who honestly, zealously, and indefatigably uphold the cause and interests of the honourable and distinguished profession.

PRICE SIX-PENCE.

PUBLISHED IN TIME FOR POST EVERY FRIDAY AFTERNOON; CONTAINING THE WAR-OFFICE GAZETTE OF THE NIGHT.

RETROSPECT OF MEDICINE:

Being a Half-yearly Journal, containing a Retrospective View of every Discovery and Practical Improvement in the Medical Sciences.

EDITED BY W. BRAITHWAITE,

M.R.C.S., Lecturer on Midwifery and the Diseases of Women and Children in the Leeds School of Medicine, &c., &c.

* * * All the preceding vols may be had by order of any bookseller, new editions having been issued. A 3rd edition of Vol. 3 is now in the press.

LONDON: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, AND CO. EDINBURGH: OLIVER AND BOYD.
DUBLIN: HODGES AND SMITH.

"The practitioner in medicine is much indebted to Mr. Braithwaite, for enabling him, without wading through the voluminous articles of the Quarterlies, or the long speeches of projectors and objectors at the various Societies, to keep up his information as to the progress of improvement in his profession. No man can look over this work without feeling proud of the profession to which he belongs, and of the men who ornament it. Here are 450 closely-printed pages of concentrated information, touching upon 200 subjects, and we dare to affirm that not half a dozen of those pages is without a highly practical suggestion. To reduce ingenuity and hypothesis to practice is peculiar to our country, and in this work it is delightful to see how every new invention, discovery, or suggestion, is weighed as to its applicability to the relief of the suffering patient. With this book in his hand, no man need be ignorant of the improvements of the day. We scarcely know how to select amongst the numerous articles of interest, the most interesting."—Lancet.

"This publication is undoubtedly one of the best digests of the existing state of medical knowledge of the day; and should be in possession of every medical practitioner who desires to keep up his knowledge with the advancing progress of medical and surgical science. We therefore earnestly recommend it to the consideration of the Profession in this country, on the shelves of whose libraries no more instructive volume could be placed."—British American Journal of Medical and Physical Science.

"We think the editor has shewn a degree of judgment in the selection, arrangement, and condensation of the different articles; and the judicious remarks which he has appended to many of the subjects, will be found highly serviceable to the reader. We hail its appearance with unalloyed satisfaction, and our hearty wishes for its success attend it, because we think it will extend to a wider sphere that utility which is the constant aim of the public journalist, and enable the country practitioner especially to keep pace with the rapid improvements in Medical Science."—London Med. Gazette.

"This is a compact and useful production * * and the volume before us bear witness to the sound judgment of its compiler, who has performed a useful task in a very satisfactory manner."—Med. Times.

"We will only add that the plan is extremely well carried out, and that the undertaking merits the patronage of the profession."—Brit. and For. Med. Review.

"On a former occasion we felt it to be our duty to recommend this really useful work to the notice of our professional brethren, and the appearance of a second number has in no way induced us to alter our opinion. Such a work may be regarded as an addition of great practical value to medical literature. It possesses the additional excellency of being 'got up' in a manner that is highly creditable to the press, and is published at a very moderate price."—Medical Times.

"The publication of Mr. Braithwaite deserves the attention of the practitioner; and we hope it will receive proper encouragement from the profession."—Edinburgh Medical and Surgical Journal.

"We quote from that capital little work, Braithwaite's Retrospect; a work very much wanted in these days of Journalism."—Medico-Chirurgical Review.

"This work increases in interest and utility."—Ibid.

NOW READY, PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS, CLOTH GILT,
AN ALPHABETICAL LIST
OF
THE OFFICERS OF THE 11th HUSSARS,
FROM 1800 TO 1850.
BY HENRY STOOKS SMITH.

LONDON: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, AND CO., AND MAY BE HAD OF ALL BOOKSELLERS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

"As the youthful aspirant for a commission in the army hurriedly passes with a glance every column of the newspaper until his gaze is arrested by the magic attraction of the "War-Office Gazette," so with the veteran, who never finds himself in presence of an Army List, without intuitively turning to that particular page whereon is inscribed the names of officers then belonging to the regiment, with which for so many years he was identified. Such is the force of habit, engendered by recollection of the past, that although the old soldier is thoroughly convinced he will there encounter a long array of names appertaining to persons of whose identity he possesses not a particle of knowledge, still will he refer to the number of his own corps, until the volume—as if to spare him further trouble—always opens at the one identical page. Doubtless some degree of satisfaction must be derivable from an occupation so frequently indulged in; but when by accident the scrutinizer lights on an ancient muster roll of by-gone days, in which peradventure he reads his own name among those of the companions of his boyhood, and partakers in many a glorious achievement, but who have long since passed away for ever, the veteran will pour forth anecdotes and reminiscences innumerable, illustrative of adventures encountered, and keenly enjoyed, when in the society of those now slumbering with the dead. Nevertheless, his retrospection—however good his memory—must, in some measure, prove defective, when endeavouring to call to mind each associate of his youth, and if his reminiscence be at fault, a cumbrous set of tomes must be referred to in quest of the required information; and that, possibly without supplying the link, after having undergone the labour of the search. The small volume before us effectually meets such emergency, and obviates the necessity of troublous enquiry; offering to the Regiment it treats of, a faithful record of all officers who have served in the corps during the last half century. So compact and perfect an enumeration of every man who has held a commission in the 11th Hussars since the year 1800 cannot be otherwise than highly appreciated by the members of that gallant corps, forming, as it does, a valuable accompaniment to Mr. Cannon's Historical Records. The compiler of the work must have devoted considerable time and labour in perfecting his task; and most sincerely do we trust he may meet with the encouragement he so richly deserves. In his opening page, the author observes—'should the present list meet with approval, it is intended to publish other regiments on the same plan;' and that it must succeed, appears to us anything but problematical, since we cannot imagine a more welcome addition to a soldier's library than a record of every officer who served under the same colours with himself during some portion of so long a period as fifty years."—British Army Despatch.

"It is a useful compilation as a matter of reference, and we hope it has received sufficient encouragement to induce the compiler to follow it up with similar lists of other Regiments."—United Service Gazette.

THE PARLIAMENTS OF ENGLAND,
FROM 1st GEORGE I., TO THE PRESENT TIME.
BY HENRY STOOKS SMITH.
LONDON: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL AND CO.

"Mr. Smith had already made some progress in the collection of materials for his new work, before he discovered the existence of an old work of similar design, by Mr. Browne Willis; and it is a singular coincidence, that this work ends just where Mr. Smith's begins. namely, in 1714, the first Parliament of Geo. I. In reference to the labour of such an undertaking, Mr. Willis, in his preface, speaks thus:—

"It is not easy to conceive the vast expenses, pains, and trouble attending searches of this nature: and I wish I could as well continue to support that expense as I have been hitherto free in giving my time and labour to the public. But, as I am now no longer able to go through these charges, I shall only intimate, that, if this collection meets with encouragement, and is attended with any emolument answerable to my past labours, I shall be tempted (notwithstanding my decline of life, loaded with encumbrances of many kinds), and become ambitious to reassume my first undertaking with zeal and cheerfulness. And were these difficulties removed, if I should live to finish the whole of this work, I shall have the satisfaction of having carried it on, and leaving materials for a person hereafter, better qualified to complete it, and offer it to the world in its due perfection."

"This work was originally published in 1716, at 25s., but has become so rare that it is now marked in catalogues at six guineas.

"Researches of this nature, which cost 'pains and trouble' a century ago, we may be sure cost no less now; for, if references have become so far more abundant as to ensure greater completeness and accuracy, yet the labour in finding them out has increased just in proportion. Of Mr. Smith's persevering zeal in the prosecution of inquiry after authentic information, we are enabled to speak from experience; and we know that his correspondence with members of parliament, official persons, and public institutions, has been very extensive. As to the utility of such researches, no publisher of a newspaper, or other record of passing events,—no member of a reading-room, or of any political club, can entertain a doubt; the work will form a permanent depository of collected information, which, without such means of reference, might be sought for scattered in a hundred various directions. Indeed, in a country like ours, where politics form the standing dish of interest in every-day conversation, and where parliamentary elections form the one matter of all-absorbing interest, as often as they occur, it is hardly too much to expect that a work of this kind would recommend itself to every individual, whether voter or candidate, past, present, or expectant. The very fluctuations which have occurred in political party opinion, as indicated by the succession of returns given in the present work, are matters of curiosity in themselves. Take Abingdon, for instance, in the first Vol. before us of the Parliaments of England;—in six contests, between 1747 and 1806, Tories were returned in opposition to Whigs; in three contests, between 1807 and 1830, Whigs were returned in opposition to Tories, and the Whig Member was re-elected without opposition in 1831; yet, the only contest which has taken place since, for the first reformed parliament of 1832, a Tory candidate succeeded against two Whigs, and has been returned without opposition in the three subsequent elections. All these changes are distinctly marked down in the record before us, and the inhabitant of any place three hundred miles from Abingdon, might feel an interest in observing their progress; but, in the lapse of a few years, how many inhabitants of Abingdon itself, without such a refresher to the memory, would have been able to give any account of them."—Gentleman's Mag.

"This work was begun in 1844; in 1845 the second volume appeared, the two giving an account of all the elections in England and Wales, from 1715, the accession of Geo. I., to the time of publication, with the names of the candidates, and the number of votes recorded for each, when that was ascertainable. The arrangement was by counties, with an alphabetical subdivision of places; and notes were added, though rarely. The work is now completed by the publication of the third volume. It contains the elections in the boroughs disfranchised by the Reform Bill, up to the day of their death; with those of Scotland and Ireland since their respective unions, arranged upon a similar plan. An appendix contains the English and Welsh elections, since the publication of the previous volumes, arranged alphabetically, without reference to counties. It is a useful work to the publicist, and to all persons interested in Parliamentary matters."—Spectator.

"We hope this neat compilation may be encouraged and completed. It would form an indispensable part of every historical library."—Quarterly Review.

MR. EAGLAND

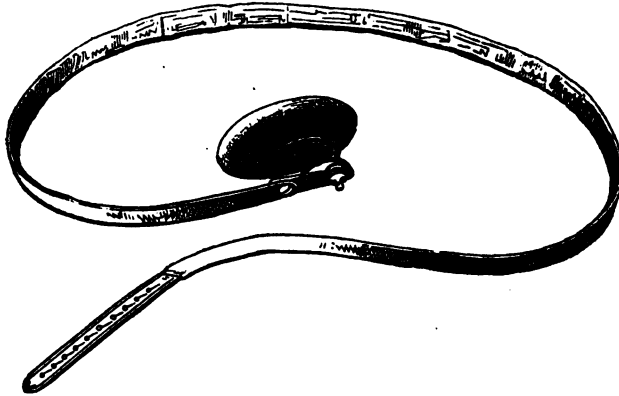

Respectfully invites the attention of the Medical Profession to the following Notice of New Trusses and other Apparatus, manufactured by him at his Establishment,

No. 35, BOND STREET, LEEDS.

TEALE'S TRUSSES.

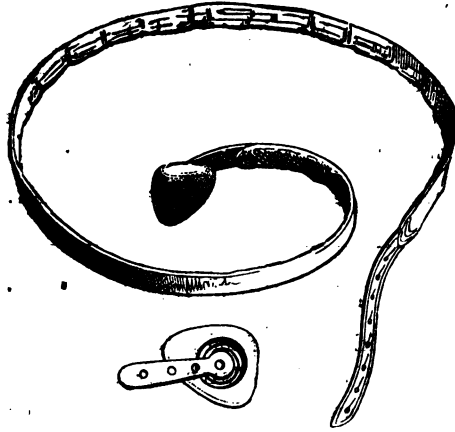

These Trusses, of which Mr. Eagland is the sole manufacturer and proprietor, were suggested by T. P. TEALE, Esq., F.L.S., Surgeon to the Leeds General Infirmary, and have been described by him in "The London Medical Gazette" of Feb. 1st, 1850.

TRUSS FOR INGUINAL HERNIA.

This Truss consists of an elastic girdle of steel, to which is adapted a compress of ivory, or of hard wood, of oblongo-oval form, acted upon by a spiral spring. Its chief advantages consist in the girdle being so formed as to maintain a firm and steady seat upon the pelvis, in the hard pad of oblongo-oval form giving a firm support to the internal ring and inguinal canal, the external ring being left free ; and in the spiral spring directing the pressure perpendicularly upon the part requiring support, and allowing the varied movements of the body to be performed without displacement of the pad. Through the medium of the spiral spring, also, the degree of pressure exercised by the pad admits of being modified.

TRUSS FOR FEMORAL HERNIA.

This Truss, like the former, consists of an elastic girdle of steel, and a hard pad of special form, acted upon by a spiral spring.

The pad is of triangular form, the upper border corresponding in its direction with Poupart's ligament, and the pubic border being parallel with the femoral vessels. The most prominent part of the pad is its upper and pubic portion. The spiral spring, which in this Truss is of a circular form, is attached towards the upper and pubic end of the pad, so as to act more especially on its most prominent part. Its pressure is thus chiefly exercised upon the pubic compartment of the femoral sheath, immediately below Poupart's ligament.

The following Notice of these Trusses, by the Editor of "The London Medical Gazette," is quoted from that Journal of Jan. 3rd, 1851:—

“REMARKS ON TRUSSES.

“Patterns of all kinds of improved trusses have at various times reached us, and we have been repeatedly solicited to give an a priori opinion of their value, either from the theory of their construction, or from the casual inspection of a patient who has worn one. Notwithstanding the numerous improved trusses which have been advertised of late years, including the Soft Pad, the Hard Pad, the Sand Pad, the Moc Main, the Wire Truss, and others, we think that most practitioners still consider it a matter of great difficulty to make a selection.

“The remarks which we are about to make, will, we hope, remove this difficulty.

"In the Journal for Feb. 1st, 1850, we inserted a communication from Mr. T. P. TEALE, Surgeon to the Leeds Infirmary. A truss is there described as manufactured by Mr. EAGLAND, of Bond Street, Leeds, and engravings are also given illustrating the principle of its construction, and its mode of application to inguinal and femoral herniæ. Specimens were at that time sent to us for inspection, but, conformably to the rule we have uniformly adopted, we did not give any recommendatory notice of these trusses, either from the inspection of them, or the reports of others. Their alleged superiority over other hernial bandages, therefore, rested entirely on the statements contained in Mr. Teale's paper.

"One of these trusses was ordered and applied to a case of femoral hernia, to which well constructed trusses of London make had been hitherto applied, but always with the great inconvenience of unequal pressure, and the liability to shift, notwithstanding the use of a thigh strap. In this case Teale's Truss has been worn continuously for eleven months without any thigh strap. The pad has perfectly maintained its position in all the movements of the body, and the spiral spring connected with it has allowed of as much freedom of motion as is compatible with the wearing of any hernial bandage whatever. During a like period, before this truss was worn, a change in the ordinary truss, or some alteration of the pad was required, at least once in three months. The result of the long-wearing of Teale's truss in the case of this patient has been most successful and satisfactory; and we consider it a duty, therefore, to state the fact for the information of our readers.

"The construction and mode of applying this truss are so well described by Mr. Teale in the paper before alluded to, that only a few remarks are required in this place. The pad is a light hollow shell of ivory, adapted in shape to the part upon which the pressure is to be applied—a plan eminently required in the femoral space, to which neither oval, round, nor flat pads can be so adapted as to preserve their position without a thigh strap, or some other incumbrance, such as increased strength in the spring, thus causing undue pressure. The spiral spring prevents the pad from moving with the girdle, and thus allows great freedom of motion without risk. We have here the art of the mechanic united to the anatomical science of the surgeon; and we feel bound to state that Mr. Teale has not in any respect overrated the value of this truss.

"Our readers are no doubt aware that there is a strong esprit de corps among surgical mechanicians. Each metropolitan maker has his favourite truss, with duly endorsed testimonials, &c.; all others are ignored, and we doubt whether a provincial maker has the smallest chance of insinuating a good article into metropolitan practice, owing to the combination of the trade against him. We do not know how it is with Mr. Eagland of Leeds, but we are informed that there is no one in London who makes his trusses, or who will make them, except probably on the disinterested principle of absorbing all the profit. We have made enquiries of one or two makers, and they have said that they "know nothing about it"; or, "it is only Coles's patent truss"; or, "it is an article that a London surgeon would never think of using," &c. &c. Our readers must be fully aware how a good article may thus be kept from their knowledge,—literally burked,—by this sort of pooh, poohing. How many medical men apply to a maker, without having any precise idea of the kind of truss most worthy of selection, and are therefore easily led to select the favourite of the particular shop!

"It is with regret we learn that these Trusses cannot be procured in London, but only from the maker, Mr. THOMAS EAGLAND, of Bond Street, Leeds. We know nothing of Mr. Eagland, excepting through the paper published by Mr. Teale in this Journal; but we have great pleasure in giving, without any knowledge on his part, this strong recommendation of his Trusses, from our own actual observation of their efficiency. We have no doubt that a more extended trial by the profession will confirm this opinion of their value."—London Med. Gazette, Jan. 3rd, 1851.

Note from T. P. TEALE, Esq., F.L.S., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Leeds Infirmary, to MR. EAGLAND.

Dear Sir,—I am very much obliged by the beautiful specimens of Trusses which you have sent me. They are excellent works of art, and fully realize my views on the subject of Trusses.

Believe me, dear Sir, yours very truly,
 MR. EAGLAND. T. P. TEALE.

Testimonial of A. S. TAYLOR, Esq., M.D., F.R.S., Prof. of Medical Jurisprudence and Chemistry in Guy's Hospital.

I consider the Ivory Pad Truss made by Mr. THOMAS EAGLAND, of Leeds, to be a considerable improvement on the Trusses ordinarily used. In one case of femoral hernia under my observation, it has been worn for a considerable period without slipping, or giving rise to that unequal pressure which constitutes a serious objection to other trusses. It has been worn without a thigh strap, and with great comparative comfort by the patient. I can, therefore, confidently recommend this truss to those who are afflicted with hernia.

Cambridge Place, Regent's Park, Dec. 20, 1850.

EAGLAND'S SPINAL SUPPORT.

This apparatus has been found of great value in the treatment of the various forms of curvature of the spine. Its chief recommendations are, its simplicity, lightness, and efficiency. When worn, it is completely concealed by the ordinary dress. For testimony in favour of his "Spinal Support," Mr. Eagland is authorized to refer to many of the first members of the profession, and also to ladies of the highest respectability who have worn it.

EAGLAND'S BANDAGE FOR PROLAPSUS OF THE RECTUM, AND HEMORRHOIDS.

This instrument, consisting of an ivory pad, acted upon by an elliptic spring, was invented by the father of Mr. Eagland, (the late Mr. J. B. Eagland, of Leeds). Its efficiency, in supporting the relaxed coats of the rectum, and the dilated hemorrhoidal veins, has been abundantly proved by the experience, during many years, of several of the most eminent members of the profession.

MR. FREDERICK SALMON, in his PRACTICAL OBSERVATIONS ON PROLAPSUS, in reference to this instrument, speaks of it as "the best apparatus he knows of," "which, whilst it affords a support adequate to retain the prolapsus within the sphincter, at the same time yields, from the manner of its construction, to the various positions of the body, so as not to produce any degree of local irritation. Altogether it is a most useful invention."

EAGLAND'S EXTERNAL UTERINE SUPPORT, OR PERINEAL TRUSS.

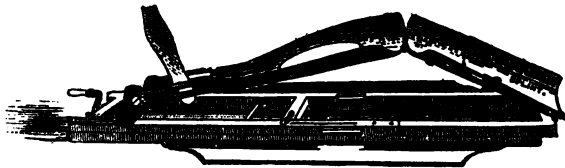

From the inconvenience and injury produced by internal pessaries, it has become an object of great importance to devise an instrument, which, by external pressure, is capable of preventing the falling down of the womb and vagina.

This object is fully attained by Mr. Eagland's External Uterine Support. This instrument consists of an ivory or box-wood pad, adapted to the size of the perineum and vulva, and acted upon by a spiral spring. It is extensively used both in hospital and in private practice. Mr. Eagland holds testimonials of the highest order in favour of it from many of the first Medical Authorities, metropolitan and provincial.

This instrument with a smaller pad, has been found of great value for compressing the urethra of the male subject in cases of incontinence of urine.

EAGLAND'S KNEE-JOINT EXTENSOR.

This apparatus was first constructed by Mr. Eagland for a patient in the Leeds Infirmary, afflicted with rigid contraction of the knee-joint. It was employed in this case, and numerous others, with perfect success, and to the entire satisfaction of the Surgeons of that Institution.

It consists of a moveable double-inclined plane of metal, so constructed as to admit of elongation both in the leg and thigh-part. This rests upon a horizontal frame of wood, in which provision is also made for lengthening or shortening, so as to meet the requirements of any ordinary case. At the foot of the horizontal frame (and so that the adjustment cannot interfere with the patient) is fixed a powerful screw, on which, by a peculiar arrangement, the foot board of the apparatus rides, by which means extension can be gradually made either in a slight or more powerful degree.

This instrument has been in regular use at the Leeds Infirmary and Dispensary, as well as many other public Institutions, and Mr. Eagland possesses strong testimonials in its favour, from

S. SMITH, Esq., F.R.C.S., Senior Surgeon to the Leeds Infirmary.
 W. HEY, Esq., F.R.C.S.,

THE GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY

Have pleasure in drawing the attention of the Commanding Officers of Regiments TO THE FOLLOWING LETTERS.

The severe and perfectly successful test to which Gutta Percha Soles have been subjected by EIGHT HUNDRED HEALTHY BOYS, who are constantly engaged in gymnastic and other active exercises, both on duty and whilst at play, on the rough gravelled ground, attached to the Greenwich Hospital Schools, affords convincing proof of the durability of Gutta Percha, and its superiority to leather for Shoe Soles.

Gutta Percha being a perfect repellent of wet, and a non-conductor of heat or cold, these Soles keep the feet warm in cold weather; and their use must consequently promote the comfort and health of the wearer.

From the ease with which Gutta Percha Soles can be applied or repaired, they cannot fail to render important service to Regiments during the long marches to which they are subject.

From LIEUT. ROUSE, R.N. Superintendent of the Greenwich Hospital Schools.

Greenwich Hospital Schools, July 16th, 1850.

I have for the last three years worn Gutta Percha Soles, and from the comfort experienced in the wear generally, particularly in regard to dry feet, and also in durability and consequent economy, I was induced to recommend the Commissioners of Greenwich Hospital to sanction its use in this Establishment, instead of leather soles. It has now been six months in general use here, so that I am, from experience in the wear and tear of Shoes for EIGHT HUNDRED BOYS, able to speak with confidence as to its utility, which in my belief is very great; and I am looking forward to its being the means during the next winter, of preventing CHILBLAINS, from which we have greatly suffered.

I have much pleasure in giving this testimony, and you have my permission to make it as public as you please, in the belief that it cannot but be doing good.

TESTIMONIALS—PATENT GUTTA PERCHA SOLES.

From LIEUT. COL. F. R. BLAKE, 33rd Regiment.

Newcastle-upon-Tyne, July 16th, 1850.

In reply to your letter requesting my opinion with regard to Gutta Percha Soles, I have great pleasure in informing you that I have made particular enquiries on the subject from those Soldiers of the 33rd Regiment, who have worn them during the past year, and they decidedly give the preference to the Gutta Percha Soles, both for comfort and durability. I have also constantly worn them myself, and can therefore speak from my own knowledge of the superior advantages of Gutta Percha Soles.

From JOHN TAYLOR GORDON, Esq., M.D., London.

(Heretofore Physician to his late Majesty, and to H.R.H. The Duke of Cambridge, but now retired.)

In reply to your late note of inquiry as to my opinion (after considerable trial) of the Gutta Percha Soles, I have no hesitation in stating that I find them the pleasantest wear imaginable,—more durable than leather, if properly applied, and truly valuable on the score of health, as they preserve the feet from wet and cold—of such importance to all persons of delicate constitution, or advancing in years.

I consider they must be most beneficially adapted for our Sailors and Soldiers, as well as our colonists in Canada, &c.

From JAMES T. O. JOHNSTON, Esq., M.D.,

Surgeon, 33rd Regiment, Berwick-on-Tweed, January 10th, 1850.

Being at all times anxious to increase the comforts, and also preserve by every means the health of the Soldiers under my medical charge, my attention was applied to the subject of Gutta Percha Soles, and I can now state with confidence, from a trial, in some instances of two years, and in others for a shorter period, that they have proved exceedingly useful in preserving the feet from damp and cold, and at the same time being in no way injurious to the general health of the wearer.

This winter (1849-50), all the Soldiers of the 33rd Regiment are supplied with Gutta Percha Soles from the Regimental Stores.

From CAPTAIN SIR JOHN ROSS, R.N.

I have worn Patent Gutta Percha Soles during the last two years, and have found them most valuable for preserving the feet dry and warm. They are very superior to leather, being not only perfectly waterproof, but also more durable and cheaper.

To Sailors—especially those proceeding to the Arctic Regions, Gutta Percha will prove a WARM FRIEND owing to its peculiar power of resisting frost. I shall take care to have a supply, not only of the Soles, but also of the Bowls, Tubing, &c., for my next Voyage.

From COLONEL STARLING, Norwich.

Norwich, June 9th, 1850.

SIR,

I have worn the Gutta Percha soles to my boots and shoes for the last two years, and think them more durable, and in every respect superior to leather soles.

Yours' obediently,

P. STARLING.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The Gutta Percha Company have the pleasure to own the receipt of the following letter from

DR. MURRAY, OF HULL.

PORTLAND PLACE, HULL.

(Copy.)

March 28th, 1850.

Gentlemen,

It is impossible to conceive of any thing more injurious or destructive to the health of the community, than the use of leaden pipes for the conveyance of water. The poisonous Salts of Lead thereby communicated, are most insidious and subtle. I hail with gratitude the substitution of Gutta Percha Tubing, I have had the leaden pipe of my own house removed, and supplied by one of Gutta Percha. Nothing can be better. I have also recommended it to others, who have adopted the expedient.

I am respectfully,

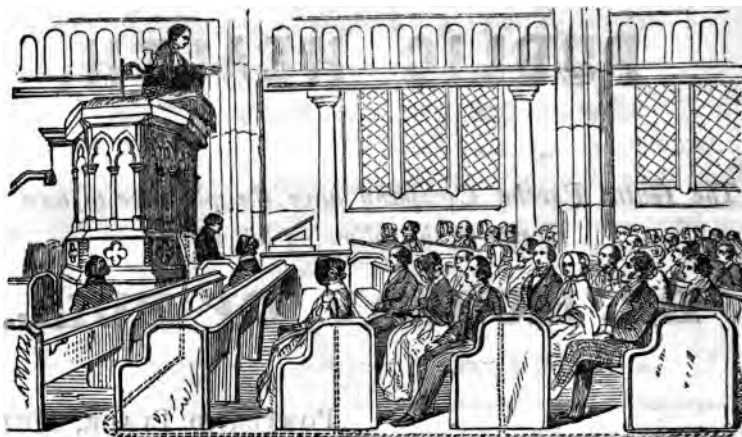

Gentlemen,

Your obedient Servant,

GUTTA PERCHA HEARING APPARATUS FOR THE DEAF

IN Churches, Chapels, Lecture Rooms,
ETC.,

The Gutta Percha Company have pleasure in informing the public, that the extraordinary power possessed by their Patent Gutta Percha Tubing for conveying sound, has rendered it available for enabling deaf persons to listen to sermons, lectures, &c.

A Gutta Percha funnel is placed either inside (so as to be completely out of sight of the congregation), or in front of the pulpit,* to which the Tubing is attached, and carried under the wood-work or floor, to the pew in which the deaf person sits. The end of the tube (which is all that appears in sight) is applied to the ear. The softest whisper in the pulpit is distinctly heard in the pew, when the ear is applied to the ivory terminal.

* Ornamental Funnels are provided suitable for the fronts of the Pulpits.

GUTTA PERCHA FOR HORSE SHOES

The following letter from DR. GILL, relative to the successful application of Gutta Percha to the feet of Horses will be read with interest.

(Copy.)

Stepney, July 12th, 1850.

Gentlemen,

In answer to yours, respecting my knowledge of the use of Gutta Percha, I may state that I have used it extensively in Surgical cases, and found it exceedingly useful, the facility with which it can be moulded, being of the greatest service in fractures and diseases constantly before my notice.

I am indebted to Dr. Slyman, Coroner, Newtown, Montgomery, for its application to the soles of horses' feet.

Horses are at all times and seasons likely to, as it is termed, pick up stones by which means the feet are frequently severely injured, to prevent this they are sometimes shod in leather, in which instance it is placed between the hoof and shoes and nailed to the foot; now Dr. Slyman's method is as follows,—he cuts a piece of Gutta Percha from a sheet $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch thick, to the size of the outside of the shoe, he then softens it in hot water, and immediately places it close to the sole of the foot, pressing it with the finger, or small piece of wood, under the edge of the shoe and into the different hollows under the foot, it cools in a few seconds where it will remain without further fastening or trouble, it is then impossible for the horse to injure his foot from treading on flints, or even glass, the protection being so exceedingly strong when cold. The piece may, if you wish it, be removed at night, (leather cannot be) and the feet stopped if desired, cow dung being generally used for that purpose, to keep the feet cool.

In the morning again the same Gutta Percha being softened in hot water, is replaced, as it lasts a long time, and is not one-twentieth part the expense of leather in its wear. So that you see Gutta Percha is as useful to horses' feet as those of human beings.

I am, Gentlemen, yours obediently,

S. L. GILL, M.D.,
Stepney, London.

GUTTA PERCHA

FOR THE

LINING OF CISTERNS, VATS, &c.

FOR ACIDS, ALKALIES, &c.

IN CHEMICAL AND OTHER WORKS.

The Gutta Percha Company have pleasure in requesting a perusal of the following letters:—

From Messrs. BROWNE & WINGROVE, Gold Refiners.

(Copy.)

30, Wood St. Cheapside, London, 24th Jan. 1850.

Sir, Having had in use for the last three months vessels lined with Gutta Percha for the reception of dilute Nitric Acid, we beg to state that in every respect the Gutta Percha is as good and as firm even as the first day it was used, and so highly satisfied are we of its valuable properties in resisting the action of this description of acid, that it is our intention to adopt it generally for every description of article or vessel to which we can apply it in our process of refining. Before we had fully made up our minds for introducing Gutta Percha into our Works, we submitted it to the severe test of a twelvemonth's trial in strong nitric acid, when the surface of the Gutta Percha was injured, while the interior was sound.

We have not the least doubt of its powers in resisting the action of dilute-nitric acid such as we use, and that it can be extensively and profitably employed by us for this purpose.

We remain Sir, Your's obediently,

To Mr. STATHAM,
Gutta Percha Company.

BROWNE & WINGROVE.

From CHANCE BROTHERS, & Co., Alkali Works, near Birmingham
Gentlemen,

Having used the Gutta Percha for many months as a lining for vessels and spouts, for containing and conveying Muriatic Acid, we have found it most effectually to resist its action, and can add our testimony to its adaptation to this purpose.

Yours' obediently,

CHANCE BROTHERS, & Co.

From Messrs. NELSON, KNOWLES, & Co., Print Works,

(Copy.)

Tottenham, near Bury.

Dear Sir,

In reply to yours, we are using the GUTTA PERCHA as Straps to turn our Dye Vats, Winches, Hydro Extractor, Lathes, &c. We think it a very great improvement on any other kind of strap. A very great consideration is, that when an accident occurs, or you wish to lengthen or shorten a strap, the alteration can be made instantly. We also have tried in etching on Rollers, through the aqua-fortis when engraving, and find it answer our most sanguine expectations in that respect, being perfectly impervious to the action of the Nitric Acid of the strength required for our purpose.

Your's, very truly,

Mr. SAM. STATHAM,
Gutta Percha Company.

NELSON, KNOWLES & Co.

From Messrs. E. & J. STURGE, Birmingham.

J. & E. Sturge have much pleasure in stating that they have now for a considerable time made use of the Gutta Percha Tubes for the transmission of highly concentrated Hydrochloric Acid, which appears to exert no perceptible action upon them.

Gutta Percha in Sheets for lining Tanks, Carboys, Bottles, Flasks, Funnels, Syphons, Bowls, Buckets, Tubing, &c., of every variety of size and strength, according to order.

GUTTA PERCHA

FOR

SURGICAL APPLICATIONS.

The Gutta Percha Company have pleasure in drawing attention to the following Letter from

William Bird Herapath, Esq.,
SURGEON TO ST. PETER'S AND QUEEN ELIZABETH'S HOSPITALS, BRISTOL.

32, Old Market Street, Bristol,
September, 1850.

Gentlemen,

In answer to your inquiries respecting my experience of the application of Gutta Percha to Surgical purposes, permit me to say that I am quite delighted with it, and am decidedly of opinion that the introduction of this substance has conferred immense advantages upon the profession.

As a means of applying splints to fractures or dislocations, or to severe sprains requiring mechanical support, its excellencies are unrivalled. The facility with which it can be cut, moulded, or fashioned to suit our purposes completely sets the carpenter at nought, and enables us to save many valuable hours when called to casualties requiring immediate attention. To the Surgeon in country practice it is invaluable.

The thinnest Gutta Percha sheeting tissue is a most admirable application as a cover to the warm or cold water dressing, or as a protection to linen when using solutions of nitrate of silver, or other metallic or acid preparations as lotions, which would injure the texture or quality of our patients' vestments. I have used Gutta Percha as a lining to a cistern, with tubing of the same material to conduct the water into my dispensary—they answer admirably—at first some disagreeable flavour was communicated to the water, but it soon disappeared.

My plumber readily learnt the mode of managing it from your printed directions.

With respect to Gutta Percha, as an article to supply our wants instead of earthenware, I am sure it will only have to be known to be appreciated highly, no fractures can occur however roughly the utensils may be used.

I am, Gentlemen,

Yours most obediently,

WILLIAM BIRD HERAPATH,

Surgeon to St. Peter's and Queen Elizabeth's Hospitals Bristol.
